Who is the Qualification for?

The Trauma-Informed Parenting Preparation Assessment for Kinship & Connected Care is for individuals who are being assessed to care for a child as a Kinship Carer, Connected Person or Special Guardianship Order (SGO). It is used alongside the Therapeutic Parenting Preparation Assessment for Kinship & Connected Care Assessment process.

Qualification Content

The programme includes four units which include:

- The Role of the Kinship & Connected Carer
- Understanding the Needs of the Child and Young Person
- Caring for the Child or Young person
- Caring for you

Mode of Learning

Learners have support from a programme tutor and peer support for their studies through an online forum.

Please note: The qualifications are predominantly studied online through a learning platform; therefore, it is a prerequisite for applicants to be ICT/computer literate.

Qualification Benefits

This course aims to provide individuals with knowledge about childhood trauma, recognising its signs and symptoms, and how to support a child who is coming to live with them.

Additionally, it covers navigating the Kinship Care system and making learners aware of the available support and how to access it. Upon completion of the course, learners will receive certification for our Level 1 Award, which has been accredited by CACHE.

The qualification is mapped into TSD (England) and AWIF (Wales) requirements which can be evident throughout the courses and relevant workbooks the course provides learners with.

Accreditation & Certification

This qualification is accredited by the awarding body CACHE, once completed, learners will receive a certificate from CACHE.
